DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 3.—Mystery to-day surrounds the wrecking in Thurder bay, off Point Aux Barques, Lake Hurron, of the packet freighter New York, operated by the New York Steamship Company, of this city.

The crew was picked up in yawls by the steamer Matafa, bound for Cleveland. Judged by the bits of wreckage, land. Judged by the bits of wreckage, the New York has completely broken to pieces, but the cause of the accident is not known, and unless the Matafa purs the ill-fated ship's crew off in Detroit the details will not be known until the steamer reaches Cleveland, early tomorrow. The loss will probably reach more than $75.000.

The New York was under the command of Capt, William Humphrey, a sallor of long experience. She was a wooden vessel, bullt in 1879. Her length was 269 feet; her gross tonnage registered 1,345, with a net tonnage of 1,274.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The chauffeur of a seven-passenger touring car, belonging to Max Clair, a shirt waist manufacturer, was badly injured, and eight children were painfully hurt when the machine, in which the little ones were given an outing by Mr. Clair's courtesy, skidded over an embankment at Carmel, N. J., and overturned.

The chauffeur, James Wilson, is being cared for by friends of the shirt waist manufacturer in Carmel. He is too seriously hurt to be moved, and physicians are battling to save his life. The children are all under the care of doctors. One of their number sustained three broken ribs. The others escaped with lacerations, contusions, and sprains.
